

Page 1 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 2 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 3 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 4 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 5 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 6 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 7 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 8 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 9 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 10 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 11 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 12 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 13 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 14 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 15 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 16 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 17 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 18 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 19 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 20 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 21 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 22 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 23 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 24 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 25 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 26 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 27 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 28 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 29 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 30 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 31 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 32 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 33 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 34 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 35 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 36 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 37 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 38 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 39 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 40 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 41 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 42 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 43 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 44 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 45 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 46 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 47 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 48 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 49 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.

Page 50 - PDPA Singapore Benchmark Document

Personal Data Protection Act 2012 (PDPA)

Chapter 1: Preliminary

1. This Act may be cited as the Personal Data Protection Act 2012.
2. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires collect means collecting personal data by any means; consent means a voluntary, specific, informed and unambiguous indication of the individuals wishes.

Chapter 2: Data Protection Obligations

3. An organisation must not collect personal data about an individual unless the individual has given consent to the collection, or the collection is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.
4. An organisation must not use personal data about an individual for a purpose unless the individual has given consent or the use is required or authorised under this Act or any other written law.

Chapter 3: Transfer of Personal Data

5. An organisation shall not transfer any personal data to a country or territory outside Singapore except in accordance with requirements as may be prescribed under this Act.

Chapter 4: Access and Correction

6. An individual is entitled to request an organisation to provide the individual with access to personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.
7. An organisation shall, upon the request of an individual, correct an error or omission in the personal data about the individual that is in the possession or under the control of the organisation.